DR. ROARK'S ADDRESS

The Feature of the Teachers'
Institute Tuesday Night.

CHARMED LARGE CROWD

The Institute Will Adjourn
To-morrow at Close of Afternoon Session.

The address of Prof. R. N. Roark, instructor of the county Teachers' Institute, last Tuesday night, was one of the most interesting heard here for many a day.

An excellent musical program preceded the address. Mrs. R. C. Hardwick, in her usual excellent way, presided at the piano. Miss Lillian Gray, one of the sweetest violinists in this section, and Dr. R. F. McDaniel with his flute, rendered a duet, entitled "The Angel's Serenade" to the great enjoyment of the large crowd present. They were loudly encouraged, but failed to answer until the next number on the program was rendered.

Miss Nell Donaldson, who never fails to charm with her entrancingly sweet and highly cultivated voice, sang a solo, with piano accompaniment, "Sing Me to Sleep." So delighted were the auditors that they loudly demonstrated their eagerness to hear her in another number.

Miss Gary gave as the second number, "Barcolle." In this solo the artist exceeded herself. Not a note was lost by the audience, and her violin never gave out sweeter tones or called forth higher appreciation. The rendition was perfection.

The theme of Dr. Roark was: "Face to Face with the Here and Now." He dealt in a most masterful way with the problems that have confronted the nations of the past and up to the nations of today. Touching upon the questions propounded by the Sphinx to the ancients—Persia, Greece, Rome, England, etc., he came up to the problems of today—particularly in our own country, which, in his concluding remarks, he called "The Crowned Queen of the Court of Nations." He spoke at length of the conditions in our country, after referring to the Revolutionary and Civil Wars; of the so-called race question, which he does not regard really as a problem, but a condition, and the changes in the negro's condition must be brought about by himself alone, and that by being educated and lifted out of his present condition of ignorance and degradation. Then there is the tramp question; the immigration question; the large cities, which contain one-fifth of our population, and many other questions, some of which cannot be answered today. But what our country needs is better teachers, better buildings and better discipline. And back of all is the training of children in the home. Dr. Roark's address showed his familiarity with current events and conditions, through analysis and his great design for the general education of the children of Kentucky.

TAKEN TO THE PEN.

Frank Merriwether Goes for Life—Cunningham for Two Years.

Deputy Sheriff T. J. Tate and Geo. Clark took Frank Merriwether and Dave Cunningham to the Penitentiary at Eldysville Tuesday. Merriwether is one of the men convicted for murdering the unknown white man at Pembroke. Cunningham was sentenced to two years for grand larceny.

The Russian mutineers have turned pirates on the Black Sea, which is 700 miles long and 380 wide, and the destruction of their battleship has been ordered.

GEORGE HOLLAND'S DOOM NEAR AT HAND.

Unless Gov. Beckham Commutes Sentence He Will Be Hanged Early To-Morrow Morning.

IS THE THIRTEENTH TO BE HANGED IN THE COUNTY.

Historical Sketch of Previous Wearers of the Fatal Black Cap--Two Women--Only One White Man.

For the second time George Holland is standing on the brink of an open grave. Six months ago, on the day before his execution was to take place, Gov. Beckham granted a respite of six months in order that Holland might testify in the cases of his accomplices who were tried in February. This he refused to do and this time he has nothing to hope for. To-morrow, probably before breakfast, he is doomed to die upon the scaffold.

The crime for which he must die was one of unparalleled atrocity in the county. He is one of a gang of negro thugs who infested the bar-rooms of Pembroke in November, 1903. A white man, a stranger to everybody, was in Pembroke on Nov. 14. He seemed to be a machinist of some sort and had a kit of tools and a roll of money, supposed to contain about $105, from subsequent testimony. He bought some whiskey in Pembroke and exhibited his money in paying for it. The greedy eyes of some of the negroes took in the situation. The stranger left the town and a few hundred yards away camped for the night in a skirt of timber, built a fire and went to sleep by his camp-fire to awake in another world.

Nine negroes subsequently arrested were implicated in the murder and perhaps one or two others who escaped. Those arrested were George Holland, Frank Sherman, Dick Carney, Frank Merriwether, Bill Garrott, Frank Massie, Ed. Holland, Chas. Finch and Ed. Moseley. The people demanded prompt action and a special term of court was held in January 1904, and five of them tried and condemned to death. The other cases were permitted to drag through later courts. Owing to errors in the lower court rulings, some of the cases were reversed and the trial court set aside the verdicts in one or two of the cases. Holland alone was left under death sentence.

Seven others have since been tried and given life imprisonment. One of these, Chas. Finch, is trying to get another trial. The ninth of the gang, Ed. Moseley, is out on a straw bond, spending a large part of his time on the chain gang for various kinds of law breaking.

Old George Holland was one of the principal murderers. Merriwether struck the sleeping stranger on the head with a bludgeon and George Holland sprang upon the quivering form and cut the dying man's throat. Afterwards the flesh was cut from the victim's face to prevent recognition and the body was hidden under a pile of rails, where it was found three days later. The detective work in the case was done by Marshal Jos. E. Jackson and R. L. Moore, and several of the men were induced to make full confessions, Finch being one of them. The murderers divided the money among them and spent the night following the murder in gambling and drinking. If they had taken the time to bury the body, probably nothing would have ever been known of the crime, but in their haste to get away, they failed to conceal the body. It was found by E. F. Coyner, mail carrier, and Mr. Dorsett, of Pembroke, while being devoured by dogs.

AN INTERVIEW.

Does Not Seem to Realize His Nearness to Death, But is Hopeful.

Lying in his bunk, fat and sleek, with his cell mate and accomplice in crime, Charley Finch, in like excellent physical condition, a Kentuckian man found old George Holland. It was evident to the reporter that the man sentenced to be hung to-morrow had not allowed his approaching end to prey upon his mind to any considerable degree. He really seemed indifferent to his fate and was slow in answering all questions put to him. There was a nonchalance about him that seemed born of a vague hope that Governor Beckham will yet delay the execution of the law, or commute his sentence to imprisonment for life, with his other seven confederates.

Holland does not look his 63 years by 10 or 15. He looks well groomed, weighs about 165 pounds and has evidently been taking things easy. He says, however, that he has had but little desire of late to play the fiddle.

To the question as to whether he was prepared to meet his God, he replied: "I can't say for certain." "Have you been praying, George?" "Yes, sir, some."

"How often a day?" "Sometimes three times a day, and sometimes oftener. I can't pray as often as I want to, because there's another man in here with me. I wish you would ask Mr. Boyd to give me a room to myself."

To the direct question as to whether he thought Governor Beckham would commute his sentence, he said that he had been living in that hope. This hope has evidently been the cause of Holland's indifference. Why he imagined this, was not made known.

When he was told that there seemed to be not even the remotest possibility of the Governor interfering with the carrying out of the death penalty, the doomed man turned over on his stomach, rested himself on his elbows and looked as if he still thought that he was not to die before the sun sets to-morrow evening. It is hard to understand his stolid indifference. He was not curt in his replies to questions, but throughout the interview seemed to want to be let alone.

Finally, to the question as to whether he feared death, he said: "I don't fear to die, and would not mind it if I wasn't to die for something that I didn't do. I didn't kill that man."

"Well, George, whether you did or not, the jury says you must die. You, like the others, have had your trial, and you have been adjudged guilty, and the thing for you to do is to get ready to die."

Studying a while, he slowly replied: "I never saw that man, and don't know any thing about it."

Charley Finch, who was standing in the cell, smoking a cigar deliberately, seemed really more interested in the conversation than Holland. Occasionally he would knock the ashes from his cigar and tell Holland he ought to think more about his approaching end. Finch was not sufficiently interested, however, to allow his cigar to go out.

Holland expressed a desire to see his wife, saying that he does not know where she is now—that the last time he heard of her she was at Guthrie. He said he wanted somebody to telephone her to come to see him.

The Kentuckian man was allowed to see Holland a second time. He

Loss of life is variously estimated at from 200 to 1,000 persons, and property damages to the extent of over a million dollars, have been caused by the floods which have swept over Guanajuato, Mex., as the result of a cloud-burst.

Senator John H. Mitchell was found guilty at Portland, Ore., of practicing before the departments of the United States government for compensation. The jury commended the defendant to the mercy of the court. Mitchell made a motion for a new trial, which will be heard next Monday.

In the prize fight at Reno, Nev., July 3, Marvin Hart won over Jack Root in the twelfth round and received the title of the heavyweight championship from Jim Jeffries, who acted as referee. Root was the favorite in the betting. The fighting was fast and furious. The punch which compassed the downfall of the Chicagoan was a short-arm powerful jolt of the right arm to his body.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

GEORGE HOLLAND'S

DOOM IS VERY NEAR AT HAND.

was told that he would see the sun rise only one more time, and was asked if he was nearer a decision as to his readiness to meet his Maker. He replied: "I don't know that I am." He was given a Bible, but as he cannot read, he said he would get some one to read it for him.

There was not a shadow of a "break-down" at either talk with Holland, and unless Gov. Beckham interferes and commutes his sentence to life imprisonment, which is not thought at all probable, the old negro will meet his fate in the morning, the execution taking place in the room built for that purpose in the new county jail.

A sort of vacant stare leads one to think that he will go to his death with the stolidity of an animal and without making a confession.

Sheriff Lem Davis has perfected all arrangements for the fatal event. The law says that executions shall be private, and the building of a drop was included in the contract when the new jail was built. The rope has been ordered several days since, and everything is about arranged, only the tickets of admission have not yet been given. But fifty will be given to the press ministers and others.

Other Hangings.

There have been twelve previous hangings in Christian county, which follow below in the order of their occurrence:

No. 1.

A colored girl, a slave of Dr. Edward Rumsey, hanged in 1812 for poisoning a baby. It was fretful and the girl gave it laudanum and killed it. She claimed she did it to keep the child and there was much division of opinion as to the justice of her execution.

No. 2.

"Old Kemp," a negro slave of Joshua Cates, hanged about 1820 for shooting his master, who recovered from the wound and did all he could to save the old man's life.

Edmund, a slave of James Jones, was sentenced to be hanged Nov. 16, 1832, for stabbing Brewer Reeves, but was pardoned by Gov. Breathitt, four days before the date of his execution.

Nos. 3 and 4.

Cassie, a slave of Wm. Gray, and Squire, a slave of Mrs. Rhoda Clark, were hanged Oct. 2, 1833, for the murder of Mrs. Miller. The girl showed her into an open well, drowning her. At the trial she implicated Squire and both were hanged together.

John Miller, indicted as accessory, was also given a death sentence, but escaped before his execution and was never re-captured.

No. 5.

Sam, a slave of Thos. B. Wilson, charged with a criminal assault upon Frances W. Hill, who appeared in court and testified against him, was convicted. He broke jail and outraged another woman, but was re-captured and executed at the time fixed, June 7, 1839. The body was turned over to medical students for dissection.

No. 6.

Jesse, a slave of Dr. Smith, was convicted of the murder of a white woman, whose dead body he claimed to have found, and was executed September 2, 1842. His body also was dissected.

No. 7.

Edward Alonso Pennington, the only white man ever hanged in the county, was executed May 1, 1846, for the murder of a man named Simon Davis. A boy named Lons Powers was written about the career of Pennington by J. J. Weir, 1890.

Henry, Sr., of Los Angeles, Cal., is the only survivor of the jurors who convicted him. Milton Clark was the sheriff.

No. 8.

John, a slave of W. B. Mason, who killed Mr. Mason's overseer, Bard Sherrill, was convicted and executed by Sheriff Jno. B. Gowan, on Nov. 18, 1853.

No. 9.

Jacob, a slave of H. G. Bowling, who murdered a white man named Charlie Boyd, was hanged Dec. 12, 1856, by Sheriff Jno. B. Gowan. Judge Geo. B. Cook was then on the bench. R. S. Gary, one of the jurors, still survives.

No. 10.

Ned, a slave of Jno. T. Edmunds, who killed a fellow-servant, was hanged May 16, 1862, by Deputy Sheriff R. T. McDaniel. This one was, like all previous hangings, public and was witnessed by a great crowd.

No. 11.

The next hanging was 23 years later. Jordan Taylor, a negro who killed his mistress, Sally Saunders, near Casky, was hanged June 26, 1885. He was sentenced by Judge Jno. R. Grace and executed by Sheriff John Foyd, in a private inclosure near the jail. The jurors were: A. M. Cooper, Thos. Brown, Jas. Lacy, Wash. Harry, M. V. Dulin, W. H. Sizemore, Jno. W. Courtney, G. W. Clark, Alex. Walker, J. S. Forrey, E. D. Boyd and E. F. Morris.

No. 12.

The last hanging in the county was Sept. 14, 1894, when Beverly Adams, a negro of meager intelligence, was hanged for the murder of Ott Campbell, col. He was sentenced by Judge Jno. R. Grace and hanged by Deputy Sheriff H. H. Goley. The jurors were: Jesse Denton, C. N. Edwards, W. H. Butler, M. V. Dulin, J. H. Murphy, Milton Hicks, W. T. Bonte, Bayless Parker, L. R. Davis, Alex. Campbell, J. W. Carlous, R. L. Boyd. He was hanged in the jail yard in an inclosure.

Home Telephone Company Building Another New Line.

The town council of Crofton has again postponed action for another month, on the franchise asked for by the Cumberland Telephone Company. In the meanwhile the Home Company has in operation its exchange of 60 subscribers and all are well pleased with the service. The Home Company is now building its line out the Clarksville pike and will make a second connection with Clarksville in a short while. The people along that line are giving the new company a cordial welcome and every encouragement in the enterprise. The poles are being planted by a strong force of workmen. In the Kentuckian today appears a new list of nearly fifty city subscribers.

DOUBLE HEADER ON THE FOURTH.

Paducah Took Both Games From Us By Narrow Margins.

HENDERSON NEXT WEEK

Browns Will Finish the Week With Three Games With Cairo.

STANDING TO JULY 2.

Clubs—	Played.	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Paducah.....	63	43	20	.682
Vincennes.....	59	40	19	.677
Princeton.....	62	28	34	.453
Cairo.....	61	27	34	.442
Henderson.....	62	24	38	.387
Hopkinsville ..	61	22	39	.360

The fourth of July games were double-headers at the three large towns and each team won and lost a game, except that Paducah beat Hopkinsville both games at Paducah. Bomar and Platt pitched both games. The first was 2 to 1 and the other 5 to 2 against Hopkinsville, with but few errors. The last game was played with Paducah yesterday and after a day off the Browns will begin a series at Cairo for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, coming home July 10, 11 and 12 to play Henderson six games, three here and three at Henderson.

CHAT OFF THE BAT.

Here is the way a Paducah player explained what happened here Saturday:

"The same old story when the Indians go against the Net Students when that old Jonah Bomar, is in the box. The Indians lost, as predicted when it was made known that Bomar was to do the twirling act for the lunatics. The game today resulted in a victory for Hopkinsville by a score of 7 to 3. South was in the box for the Indians, but the team could do nothing with Bomar and went down in defeat.

Jesse Moore, the brag batter with the Browns last year, who held out for more money than the management was willing to pay, was stopped from playing with an Arkansas team, last week, and was allowed to buy his release for $100. He is a good man and was very popular with the fans.

Rosson struck out 11 men in the game with Henderson at Princeton, Sunday.

We will get a chance to see Angie Marre in his Cairo uniform on July 22.

Princeton took all three games from Henderson in the last series, two of them shut-outs.

Umpire Quinn will be here with the team today to boss the double header and several other games to follow. Umpire Zinkins is umpire no more, owing to his having been canned by Secretary Greaney. Keifer requested that he be allowed to go home to his wife, who was ill, and gaining permission, he jumped without intending to come back. His run was soon discovered and another man, Mahoney, from Springfield, Ohio, was wired to report for duty immediately. Mahoney is said, in the country where he has been doing service, to be very fair and true in his decisions, and he will likely prove a good man.—Cairo Bulletin.

Cairo is beefing on the two games transferred from Hopkinsville to Paducah last Sunday and Monday, claiming that it was not done with the approval of Secretary Greaney. It is hard to please the Cairo bunch.

The Phase of Catarrh Most Prevalent in Summer is a Run Down, Worn Out Condition Known as Systemic Catarrh.

ADDLBERT STUD'S THOROUGH-BREDS SOLD JULY 1ST.

$13,300 REALIZED.

Prices of Hopkinsville String About up to Season's Average.

Further reports received from the sale of young thorough-breds sold at Sheephead Bay, New York this season show that blooded horses have not brought, generally, as good prices, at least no better, than last year. To those not informed there is no apparent reason save that the increasing use of automobiles has, very materially, decreased the demand for fine stock by those who have heretofore purchased for private use. Men who are able to pay fancy prices for such animals are now, to a large extent, automobilists. This, of course lessens the demand for horse-flesh, we mean blooded stock, and the few purchasers get what they want on this account at almost their own price. At one time the bicycle almost drove riding and driving stock from the market, and such animals were, in large cities, what might in commercial phraseology, be called "dead stock," not bringing more than 60 or 75 per cent. of their real value. The bicycle had its day and ran out, probably because it was injurious to the health of ladies and partly because the men became tired of expending so much "energy" when out merely for a pleasure spin.

Then the automobile came to the front, especially in the East, and the devotee of the auto, today was once the lover of the "wheel." Of course we are speaking of the monied class, men who are able to pay $3,000 or $4,000 for an auto as the laborer is to pay $30 for a bicycle or a "plug."

"But what has the auto to do with race horses?" some one may ask. One answer to this that many states have passed such stringent laws against betting on horse races that such stock cannot possibly be as much in demand as formerly, for there must, of necessity, be less racing, less demand for racing stock, less betting, and, inevitably, less demand for "fryers." And then there must be considered the exhilaration of an automobile run. Nothing to do but sit quietly while the chauffeur lets "her run," no run away, no shortness of wind, nothing but to "see her fly" and never tire. These are probably the chief causes of the short demand and low prices of the American thorough-bred to-day, right in the face of the fact that the speed of the American racer to-day, in this country and in Europe, is greater than ever before.

The string of horses shipped by Williams & Radford and sold at public auction last Saturday was the equal if not superior, to any shipped heretofore. Shipped from this point direct to New York in what might be termed a " sleeper," they reached their destination in perfect condition. The American Express Co., received, for the first time, the contract to transport the valuable property of Messrs Williams & Radford. A car made specially for transporting horses was furnished and every convenience for their care and comfort was furnished those who had them in charge, and being attached to a passenger train, the animals were delivered in New York in the quickest time possible, just like any other passenger. We have been told that the string reached New York in better condition than any previous shipment. The prices, which were cash down, were as follows:

Williams & Radford sold 13 head for $9,000.
Ward E. Claggett, one, for $550.
Leo Ellis, one $300.

NEW SYSTEM

Inaugurated for Working Rolls at Baptist Sunday School.

A new system of recording was inaugurated at the Baptist Sunday school last Sunday. The class rolls and class collections have been discarded and the roll is made out and the collection made at the door as the pupils enter. Each officer and pupil is provided with a card, which is numbered, and the cards are kept by the clerks, who check them by numbers, marking present and recording the amount contributed each Sunday. The card becomes a complete annual record of attendance and contributions. The number present Sunday was 179 and the amount collected was $15.75. It is claimed that it is a great advantage to have the classes freed from interruption during the progress of the lesson.

MOAYON'S BIG SALE.

Surprising the Natives With Bargains in Dry Goods.

The great summer clearance sale of John Moayon Company, which began Monday for fifteen days, is proving to be the biggest sale this house has ever had. It is a success beyond the most sanguine expectations. It will continue until July 15th and those who have not secured a share of the great bargains should do so at once.

MAKES MOUTH ORGANS.

One Factory in Germany Makes Six Million Instruments a Year for Exportation.

Although the United States is by far the largest purchaser of mouth organs, comparatively few are made in this country. Most of the mouth organs sold here are of German make and are imported from the Black Forest, where one factory alone turns out 6,000,000 harmonicas yearly through its 15 branches, in which 2,000 hands are employed. Only the higher grade harmonicas are of domestic make, since it is impossible to compete with the German made affairs in the cheaper grades mostly sold, but at the same time the most expensive are also obtained from Germany because of the care used in their manufacture.

These last are so-called "concert" harmonicas, which come in sets of from four to a dozen and which sell for several dollars.

They are tuned in various keys, and in one form have six harmonicas of different keys fitted about a central stem. Some of the more elaborate ones are handsomely decorated in silver and gold, and the wood, instead of the cheap pine generally used, is mahogany.

Trossingen is the headquarters for the industry, and the trade supports almost the entire population.

A SPLENDID LETTER

To the Fitz-Simmons Auction Co.—It is Self Explanatory.

Vincennes, Ind., June, 28, 1905.

To the Public.
On Tuesday June the 27th, 1905, Fitz-Simmons Auction Co., sold 90 lots for the firm of TeWalt & Meyer, and 35 lots for myself in such a manner as to inspire the confidence of the most skeptical.

It affords me pleasure to add that each one connected with the company is thoroughly up to his task, and while in the city conducted themselves as only cultured gentlemen could.

Sincerely,
Will L. TeWalt.

This letter was received by the writer this a. m., and is very much appreciated, coming as it does from a life long resident of Vincennes, a successful business man, and a Christian gentleman in all that word implies. This company will make an auction sale of about 50 or 60 town lots in the McPherson, Fowler, and Hanbury addition to the city of Hopkinsville on W. Seventh St., on the next Tuesday July 11, and it will be conducted on the highest plain of business integrity, as are all our sales. The above letter attesting to the truthfulness of the statement.

This city has a bright future and property values will double within the next 5 years if the future can be judged by the past. With the finest tobacco and wheat country in the state to support it, with the citizenship of the county, prosperous and happy, with splendid and substantial buildings now in process of construction, and a magnificent sewerage system just on the eve of active construction, the engineers are today surveying 7th St., on which the lots to be sold are located. Immediately after the survey is completed profiles, plats, plans and specifications will be perfected and then the work of constructing the 8 or 10 miles of sewer will begin; this important improvement alone will increase property values at once, therefore, this will be an opportune time to invest either for home building, or speculation, on this most desirable property.

To those who may for any cause be indifferent to these splendid incentives for investment I would mention our list of attractions absolutely free, which should be an inducement for everybody to attend this novel sale.

Baby Beauty Contest, to the three prettiest babies between the ages of 6 and 18 months, born in the county, 1st prize $10, 2nd prize $5, 3rd prize $2.50.

Old Settlers Foot Race, must be 50 years or over, not less than ten to enter, 50 yard dash. 1st prize $10, 2nd prize $5, 3rd prize $2.50.

Three Cash Prizes open to everybody on the grounds at time of drawing $12.50, $7.50 and $5.00.

$50 in gold will be given to any respectable white couple, residents of this county who will marry on the grounds.

Free carriages, the Hopkinsville Brass Band, a funny auctioneer all combine to make it worth your while to attend.

Come, tell your friends, send word to your neighbors. Come and plant a few dollars in this valuable real estate and see them grow.

FIGURING THE COST

Of The County's Experience With Smallpox Last Winter.

Health officer Woodard is getting up a report on the smallpox epidemic to submit to the council tonight, that will show that the cost to the city was about $2,116.

The county was called upon to pay $2,400 for the Concord hospital, $1,000 for the one at Gracey and the joint expense of Cedar Grove was $1,356. The county will be out about $5,000 all told, as nearly as it can be estimated, and the city almost half as much when everything is figured up. The total vaccinations in the city and county were 26,000.

SIMPLE WAYS OF THE POPE

Some incidents of the kindly manners of His Holiness in Everyday Life.

Anecdotes are continually being related which show that the pope is every bit as democratic as the most democratic of the rulers of material things who surround him on all sides. One of the latest anecdotes reveals not only his democratic habits, but his great love for the memory of his mother as well.

When a certain cardinal was talking with the pope the latter, looking the time of day, pulled from his pocket a dilapidated and attached to it as a chain was a piece of old shoe string. When the astonished cardinal had partially regained his composure he took from his pocket his own magnificent gold timepiece and requested the pope to accept it as a gift and give him the nickel one in exchange.

But the pope shook his head, and as he reviewed the cheap little affair in his pocket he remarked that it was good enough for him as long as he lived; doubly so, since it was given him by his mother when she could ill afford it, and had to scribble to save up the purchase price. As for the shoe string, when the watch had been paid for there was no money left for a chain, so one of his sisters gave him the string, and he had been happy ever since in the possession of both.

A Roman photographer, without any great reputation, desired very much to secure a photograph. His friends told him that such a thing was impossible. Nothing daunted, and trusting in the common reports of the pope's good nature and readiness to grant what might seem to others trivial requests, he forwarded his request to the vatican. The reply came back, why, certainly, and when he appeared in the gardens on the day set he found the pope affability itself and experienced no trouble in securing a photograph.

UTILITY OF A BATTLESHIP.

Writer Believes That His Defense Is of Little Use to Modern Country.

Primarily, the battleship is merely a gun-platform which can be moved about. It would be far cheaper for a country in need of defense from a foe coming over the sea to mount guns around its shores and abstain from building battleships, says Archibald S. Hurd, in Booklovers' Magazine. The shore guns might be supported by some coast-defense ships—small monitors. But this is a form of economy in which no nation with ocean borne commerce and distant possessions can indulge. Consequently, men-of-war are built to go anywhere and do anything. The battleship is a mobile gun platform. The principal weapons of the Kansas comprise four 12-inch guns, which can discharge, according to the proficiency of the gunners, from one to two projectiles of 584 pounds each, each of which can throw projectiles weighing 165 pounds three and one-half times in 60 seconds. In addition 20 three-inch guns discharge per minute 12 shells weighing 14 pounds. In the first minute of an action at sea the discharge of a single broadside would result in about 1,500 pounds of metal being hurled through space with tremendous force. The surprising anomaly is that while these guns, the cause of the ship's existence, cost less than $1,000,000, the mountings and the platform on which they are carried and moved from one side of the world to the other, if the need arises, entail an expenditure not far short of $7,000,000. The guns are cheap; it is the platform with its machinery, and its 4,000 tons of armor, which is expensive.

Applied externally, it relieves the pain at once. Taken internally, it cures permanently by purifying the blood of the lactic acid which causes the disease.

Receipts Have Been Heavy And Sales Good.
